Main Finding

The University seeks to embrace excellence through its academic programmes, scientific research, and national and international collaborations. During the review the following practices were identified as areas of strength: the activities of the Happiness Committee which contribute to staff well-being and recognising their achievement in a number of areas including teaching, scholarly achievement, community engagement, and innovation; the participation of students in a wide range of extra-curricular activities; and the role of the Teaching Excellence and Technology Centre in supporting the professional development of staff.

As per the review recommendations, the University is asked to develop a clear understanding of the distinction between governance and management; formalise some practices and conduct regular policy awareness campaigns with staff and students to ensure consistent implementation of policies and procedures; regularly review all health and safety aspects in place to ensure that students and staff enjoy a safe learning and working environment; and diversify the academic staff profile in terms of seniority and backgrounds and review their teaching loads as well as the resources needed to meet the university's aspiration in relation to scientific research and international ranking.
